Greetings:

Please find my main comments in the first attached file. These are fairly similar to ones I previously sent, although there are a few new ones including some from the Susceptibility section. I also took the time to provide various bubble comments (and a few edits) in the Appendix and Toxicity Review files that attached here. I thoroughly reviewed and focused primarily on the Appendix materials (including all of the NAS Disposition of Comments), Toxicity Review Sections including Repro/Dev'l and Cancer (including URT Cancers, Lymphohematopoietic cancers, Other Cancers).

So, hats off to the team as it's evident that a lot of time and effort went into this beast.

Best of luck finishing it up,

Mike

PS: BTW, thanks for the extra time needed to review this.

Hi all:

I'm getting close. I (thoroughly) went through the Repro, LHP and URT Cancers and some of the Appendix materials and added comments/edits. And, I'm part way through Response to Comments (RTC). Meant to check earlier, but was there an Other Cancer section I was expected to review; if so, it's not done/started.

BTW, I can finish going through the RTC this wknd and send that on Monday. I can send what I have for comments in the Appendix and Tox Review files now if you'd like too, guessing they won't change much even if there's another section to review.

Just an update,

Mike

You have a lot of material to get through, Mike. Please just send the compiled version of your complete review when you finish, as we probably won't be getting to it in a piecemeal fashion next week anyway. Also, please don't neglect your guests and work on it on your CWD, especially if you think you will be done next week either way (a week is well within the NCEA margin of error around "on time"). Thanks for reviewing!

I would suggest next week for more complete version but I will let Barbara or Andrew note if they'd rather see your comments earlier.

Thanks,
Samantha

Samantha:

OK. Thanks for clarifying. I'll keep slogging through it today, a bit tmrw, and next week. Should I send what I have up through tmrw, or just wait until next week to send more completed comments embedded in the Tox Review file? I can also just send a list of my Main/general comments to you 3 tmrw as well if that's preferred?

Thanks,
Mike

Hi Mike,

Thanks for letting me know! I will say that for the July 12th meeting, we will be focusing on overarching comments from John Vandenberg, Lynn Flowers, and Vince Cogliano. So that isn't a specific date for you.

I am hoping to schedule a meeting for reviewers such as you and a number of others to walk through your comments, this would be after the 12th.

Thanks,
Samantha

Hi Samantha:

Just a heads up that, as expected, I won't be finishing all of formaldehyde Repro/Cancer sections by today. Had hoped to devote most of tmrw (my CWD) to it.. But, we have company in town, so I likely can't carve out more than an hour or two or work on it.

To date, I have able to review Appendices, NAS Response to Comments, the Repro/Devl Epi studies and all the URT Cancers (including several of the related studies). But didn't hardly touch the Lymphohematopoietic sections. I'm torn on whether to finish writing up the main (Bubble comments) on the URT sections (about 1/3 done) this afternoon. Or try to keep slogging through reviewing the Lymphohematopoietic Cancers and worry about writing up specific comments later. I've written up some General comments which may be more helpful at this stage for the 7/12 mtg, so am leaning towards the former (i.e., keep reading).

Just an FYI,

Mike

Subject: Formaldehyde ERC review - comments due July 8th

Hi all,

You are receiving this message because you were selected as a reviewer of the draft formaldehyde IRIS assessment, looking at a section (or multiple sections) of the assessment.

In consideration of everyone's schedules and competing priorities, we've settled on a deadline of Friday, July 8th for reviewer comments. A meeting will be scheduled shortly after the 8th to discuss with the broader NCEA Executive Review Committee (ERC) and assessment team any major issues raised in the comments.

Please send your comments to me and the assessment managers, Barbara Glenn and Andrew Kraft by July 8th.

Thanks again to all of you for your participation in this important effort!

Samantha
